So Much Is Happening in New School Montessori (3-6) Classrooms

Counting beads, sounding out words, working with puzzles, threading nuts onto bolts, sewing, writing and painting the world—these students are busy! In our (3-6) program, Montessori works (activities) change regularly to provide numerous opportunities for students to develop fine motor strength, a deep understanding of math, various degrees of sorting [...]

Spring is Here and that Means it's Time for The New School Montessori's Annual Walkathon!

A part of TNSM's culture is to promote a spirit of philanthropy and volunteerism in our student body. Our students volunteer at organizations to help areas that have been affected by natural disasters. Our (9-12) students raise money to donate to a non-profit of their choosing. The (6-9) classrooms have [...]

New School Montessori Alumna Alexis Nelson is the Black Forager

TNSM's head of school, Jeff Groh, was pleased to see Alexis Nelson as a keynote speaker at the American Montessori Society's National Conference in Denver and wrote: "One of the biggest highlights for me was knowing one of the keynote speakers was Alexis Nelson—a.k.a. the Black Forager. Alexis is a [...]"

Showing Pride in Their Work

One of the amazing principles that is part of a Montessori education is that children choose their work and set their pace as they follow their interests and become immersed in their projects. The teacher's role is to structure an environment that guides and supports the students as they follow [...]

May I Take Your Order?

With the winter temperatures falling into the negative numbers, New School Montessori (6-9) students turned a negative into a positive. One especially wintry day, when it was too cold to be outdoors, students were permitted to play games during their inside recess hour. However, instead of playing games, most of [...]
