Description

It has been hard to miss our gardens blooming with early spring flowers.

We still have two small community gardens in need of captains. They are small gardens and should not take a great deal of time this year, as they have been well maintained by gardener extraordinaire, Richard Jackson, who is retiring from his North Avondale community gardening duties.

We would be grateful if you could help us maintain one of these gardens.

Please contact Judy Evans if you are able to volunteer or would like more information about these opportunities for service nanacincinnati@gmail.com. Any gardening help in our other community gardens would be most welcome.
