

Melvin Grier exhibit: It was always about the work

Description

Melvin Grier (Cincinnati, OH) spent over thirty years honing his skills as a photographer working for The Cincinnati Post, documenting news events and the people of Cincinnati. When the Post ceased publication in 2007, he used that opportunity to expand his creative development and pursue his passion for photography as an independent artist. This survey of his work features the people and places that capture Grier's photographic journey throughout his long and accomplished career.

The exhibition runs through August 20, 2023. For more details visit the Westin Gallery website.
